

Home
Alumni Community
More from Cornell

Stories

The Latest

About

KGB

BANKER

WILLIAM BURTON MCCORMICK

JOHN CHRISTMAS

KGB Banker

John Christmas, MBA '94

Christmas, himself a former banker, says his own experiences as a whistleblower in the industry informed this international thriller, co-authored with mystery writer William Burton McCormick. Their protagonist is an American financial executive who takes a job at bank in Latvia—his parents' native country—with hopes of battling economic fraud, only to find himself in the midst of deadly intrigue: his new employer proves to be a shady outfit with evil intent. Framed for murder, he goes on the run—trying not only to clear his name but to foil a plot that could lead to governmental upheaval and even war. The globe-trotting plot makes stops in Iceland, Moscow, Ukraine, and beyond.

OTHER POSTS

You may like

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Learning In—and From—a Rapidly Changing World

ALUMNI

Alison Napjus '99 Helps Oenophiles Decide What to Uncork

ALUMNI

Preserving Central Park, Manhattan's Urban Oasis

CONTACT

312 College Avenue
Ithaca, NY 14850

(607) 255-2700
cornellians@cornell.edu

MORE INFORMATION

ABOUT

Cornellians: Cornell's new, digital-first alumni publication

FAQ

Alumni Advisers

COME BACK TO CORNELL

Alumni Services

Reunion

Volunteer

Homecoming

Events

Cornell Store

PRIVACY POLICY

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

COPYRIGHT

WEBSITE ACCESSIBILITY